

CHAMBERLAIN
College of Nursing

Janet L. Snow, PhD., RN
Addison Campus Dean

Janet L. Snow is the dean of Chamberlain College of Nursing's Addison Campus. Most recently serving as an executive at the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, Dr. Snow has had more than 30 years of experience in the health care industry. Early in her career, Dr. Snow spent eight years as a registered nurse in pediatric critical care. She then began a second career as a nursing instructor at Rush University, achieving the rank of associate professor. She later served as a health care consultant working with firms including William M. Mercer, Towers Perrin and Ernst & Young. Before joining the Joint Commission, she owned her own consulting firm that was later acquired by William M. Mercer.

Dr. Snow earned her Ph.D. in nursing from Rush University College of Nursing in Chicago, and her master's degree in nursing with a pediatric specialty from the University of California at San Francisco.

CHAMBERLAIN
College of Nursing